

2018 Whitfield Prize Shortlist

The Royal Historical Society offers annually the Whitfield Prize (value £1,000) for a new book on British or Irish history. To be eligible for consideration the book must be on a subject within a field of British or Irish history and have been published in English in 2017 by an author who received their doctoral degree from a British or Irish university. It must also be its author's first solely written book and be an original and scholarly work of historical research.

Katherine East

The Radicalization of Cicero: John Toland and Strategic Editing in the Early Enlightenment
Palgrave Macmillan

Edward Gillin

The Victorian Palace of Science: Scientific Knowledge and the Building of the Houses of Parliament
Cambridge University Press

Brian Hall

Communications and British Operations on the Western Front, 1914–1918
Cambridge University Press

Claire Hilton

Improving Psychiatric Care for Older People: Barbara Robb's Campaign 1965-1975
Palgrave Macmillan

Daniel Lomas

Intelligence, security and the Attlee governments, 1945–51: An uneasy relationship?
Manchester University Press

Chris Moores

Civil Liberties and Human Rights in Twentieth Century Britain
Cambridge University Press

Connal Parr

Inventing the Myth: Political Passions and the Ulster Protestant Imagination
Oxford University Press